USP OF THE TOURISM DESTINATION IN BEIRUT LEBANON

Often called "Paris of the Middle East", Beirut :-

Beirut is a thriving hotspot for shopping, socializing and sightseeing, despite many wars and unrest. The city has been rebuilt several times, with modern architecture sharing space with Ottoman and colonial French buildings. Bustling streets such as Hamra and Ashrafieh provide hopping nightlife while the National Museum and the Gibran Museum give visitors a taste of the city's history. The Corniche is the place for activities like jogging and biking.

Best time to Visit:

Although a relatively small country, the weather in Lebanon can vary quite significantly from one area to the next, befitting a country where you can swim in the Mediterranean and ski in the mountains on the same day. In many ways it is a year round destination, depending on just what you want to do when you get there.

For sightseeing, March to May and August to November are excellent times to visit, when the climate is warm and dry over much of the country without being too hot.
